Narita International Airport Corporation and Airports Corporation of Vietnam Sign Airport Agreement

- Strengthening Strategic and Pragmatic Cooperative Ties between the Two Airport Operators -

Narita International Airport Corporation (NAA) and Airports Corporation of Vietnam (ACV) today exchanged memorandums on an inter-airport agreement aimed at strengthening cooperative ties focusing on the following three key pillars: network strategies, stimulating air-transport demand by promoting tourism, and technical cooperation in airport operation.

In the recent years, NAA has provided support to Noi Bai International Airport (Hanoi) operated by ACV in its start-up and commissioning of the new passenger terminal (2010 to 2014). Subsequent to these supports, the two airports have continued to exchange information on a regular basis and have established strong, friendly ties.

The signing of this airport agreement will pave the way for joint programs aimed at providing greater customer convenience by expanding route networks, stimulating further air-transport demand by promoting tourism and technical cooperation in the airport operations.

■ Signatories

Makoto Natsume, President & CEO, Narita International Airport Corporation

Dao Viet Dung, Deputy General Director, Airports Corporation of Vietnam

■ Joint Programs Under the Cooperative Agreement

- ① Network strategies: Enhancement of the network of routes between Japan and Vietnam at Narita Airport and the airports under the control of ACV
- ② Stimulation of demand by tourism promotion: Undertake joint promotion activities to encourage tourism demand in both countries
- ③ Technical cooperation in airport operation: Technical cooperation through training at airports under the control of ACV

■ Overview of Airports Corporation of Vietnam (ACV)

ACV operates 22 airports in Vietnam (Noi Bai, Tan Son Nhat, Da Nang, etc.). In 2016, those airports handled a total of 557,000 aircraft movements, 81 million passengers and 1.1 million tonnes of cargo.
