

Trials to Begin for Easier, Quicker Entry to Narita Airport

Tokyo, 31 January 2013: In an ongoing effort to assist our customers and ensure safety in our airport operations, Narita International Airport has been examining the possibility of eliminating security checks at the airport entrance so that customers have easier access to the airport while maintaining the high standard of our security.

We are pleased to announce the commencement of trials using an innovative security system as an initial step to achieve our objective.

Details

Trial Period: Approximately 2 months from Monday, 18 March 2013

Locations:

- Security checkpoint at the entrance into the passenger terminal at Airport Terminal 2 Station
- Corridors leading to the terminal building (please refer to the diagram below).

Description of Trials: While continuing to use the existing security facilities, we will assess the effectiveness and deployment strategies of face recognition cameras and scanners capable of detecting dangerous items carried by people on the move.
